Fashion review

What to wear (or not)

Fashion is moving so fast that it's so very easy to get lost and lose track on what's in and what's out of style... So, we are watching, minitoring and observing what the greatest and most creative brands do.

BY FRED LAFEUILLE

American brand New Balance and pro basketball player Kawhi Leonard have teamed up to create a colorful capsule collection, the “KAWHI Jolly Rancher”. You can definitely wear these sneakers for a streetwear be or why not along with an elegant black pair of pants?

In recent years, we have wondered what Balenciaga has in store for us before each fashion week. For its fall 2021 collection “AFTERWORLD – THE AGE OF TOMORROW”, the label offers us to wear crazy boots that seem to come from ancient medieval chivalry.

Come on, let's by French, dear fashionistas! And when you do it in style, you won't complain. Here and on the opposite page, two total looks from the Urban Cross brand specializing in streetwear and sportswear. Their clothes are designed in France and made in Portugal. And we love sooooo it!

Let us introduce you the limited edition “The Matrix by Sicko 19” by Pull & Bear.
It features the visual identity of the Wachowski siblings' trilogy of cult films... So, we’ll be able to wait in style the fourth episode of the franchise, which will hit theaters in December 2021.

No need to hurt your credit card (and be shouted at by your banker!) to afford a total denim look. Here, a photo from the H&M lookbook. The jacket is just perfect with its cut echoing the workwear trend.

We love it when brands play around with good old basics. Here, denim and rhinestones. A jacket signed by Zara Homme which makes us even more regret not being able to go out properly for New Year's eve – sorry to twist the knife in the wound!

Here, this is the filmmaker Xavier Dolan posing wearing designer Kim Jones's creations for Dior Homme's fall 2021 collection. A colorful collection in which the most shimmering, crazy and mega-psychedelic prints are in the spotlight.

The very best of Instagram

Because Instagram is an endless world that you don't necessarily have time to explore...
Because lots of gorgeous guys share with their dear followers their most beautiful pictures...
We make a little selection just for you to enjoy.
And if you like these guys, don’t forget to follow them on their Instagram!
